

Sheriff investigates fatalities

Officers of the Wayne County Sheriff's Road Patrol still are investigating the cause of a single-car accident on a road in Romulus' business district which cost the lives of two Romulus High School students.

Gregory Alan Fether, 16, the driver of the vehicle and Wesley Alan Clawson, 17, a passenger, perished when the car in which they were riding went out of control on eastbound Bibbins Street near the Romulus Post Office Annex, struck a C and O Railroad crossing gate and stopped when it hit a trailer.

Two other youths, Christopher Silvey, 17, and Fred Sirhan, 16, also were injured in the accident, and were taken to Wayne County General Hospital.

According to preliminary reports on the incident, the automobile skidded almost 190 feet on Bibbins Street before striking the crossing gate and ripping it out of the ground.

It skidded another 65 feet before striking a flatbed trailer parked on the north side of the street.

The incident happened at 10 p.m. Feb. 11 on a wet night. Although the roads in the area were slippery around midnight, when the temperatures fell below the freezing point, sheriff's officers have not indicated whether the weather was the cause of the accident.

Funeral services were held for both the dead youths earlier.

Clawson, the son of Mrs. Donald Langley and Duane and Wilayne Clawson was buried at Romulus Cemetery, following ceremonies Saturday at Baum Funeral Home.

He is survived by three sisters, Dawn, Cathy and Lisa Troy and a brother, Scot.

The dead youth's grandparents are Mrs. Lleta Clawson of Howell and Mr.

and Mrs. O. W. Williams of Arkansas.

Fether was buried at Michigan Memorial Park, following services at Baum Funeral Home Monday.

The son of Arnold and Carol Fether, the dead youth also is survived by a sister, Trisha and a brother, Eric.

His grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Orman Tuttle of Morency and Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Mearing of Reading.

Ironically, the Fether youth's older brother, Mark, perished in a freak accident on a Huron Township sod farm nine months ago.

The Silvey youth, the son of Romulus Board of Education member Gordon Silvey, was released from the hospital Friday after receiving treatment for his injuries.

The Sirhan youth, the son of Fred Sirhan of Castle Drive, Romulus, remains in Wayne County General Hospital in fair condition.

Bicentennial artwork improves productivity

By JIM CARAVALLAH
Of The Roman Staff

In an assembly plant, the time when a line shuts down is almost like a vacation.

The workers, to put it diplomatically, disperse from their duty stations.

But in Romulus' Kelsey Hayes automobile wheel assembly plant, a line shut down means the workers will take the time to clean up their area.

It's part of a new pride in their jobs which grew out of the hiring of a new plant manager and a relatively insignificant "paint up, clean up program" in the plant which has brought about a 25 percent increase in productivity.

"We're in a situation where the workers at the plant are being treated with a little human dignity now," said James Bruce, 44, who lives in New Boston. "It's paying off in a new pride in the job."

"Before the pride in the surroundings only seemed to be exhibited by the management at the plant when someone higher-up in the Kelsey Hayes Corp. was to visit."

"But the workers are being treated as people now, and they're responding."

The "new attitude" at Kelsey grew out of the investment of a few dollars in a few buckets of red, white and blue paint as part of a Bicentennial spirit project.

It was inspired by the action of Kenneth Mitchell, 29, who has been working at the plant 9½ years.

"I was coming through the gate one day and saw Jim (Bruce) painting a guard shack with red, white and blue, to commemorate the Bicentennial," Mitchell said. "I figured if it was good enough for the outside, it was good enough for the inside, too, and asked for a few jars of paint to do my tool box."

The spirit caught on, with workers requesting paint to fix up their machines.

At first Bruce, the plant painter

"I guess it grew from there." The spirit caught on, with workers requesting paint to fix up their machines.

with 10 years of experience, was leary, because the work force's painting eroded some of his job responsibilities.

But when the attitude which grew out of the simple painting showed a change, and the workers became a bit happier with their jobs, Bruce, his union and the plant management dropped any concern over the project.

Stanley Stewart, 25, of Sumpter Township, explained: "It used to be you couldn't get near a machine for all the grease and oil on it because no one cared."

"But when the men began painting their own equipment, they took new pride, and began keeping their own equipment clean and in working order."

"We didn't care before, but now, with the program and the attitude of Mr. Smith, there's reason to care."

The difference in the operation, according to the workers, is Earl C. Smith, the former quality control supervisor at Kelsey, and the plant manager of the Romulus facility since September.

"Mr. Smith comes around and tells you you're doing a good job," Stewart said. "It means something."

"One time I had to leave my post for a personal reason for a few minutes, and I asked him to fill in for me while he walked by, because he always said he wanted to try it."

"He did, and I got my business straightened around."

"When I came back, I realized how good it was to see a 'tie' standing at a machine doing the work I've been doing for eight years."

"He became one of us and showed us he cared."

Smith's charisma with the workers was enhanced with the painting project, which turned into a breaktime, lunchtime and downtime cleanup campaign in the plant.

"Whenever we had a few minutes, we'd be doing something to improve the place," Stewart added.

One of the major painters in the project was Joe Kidd, 26, of Westland. A former art student at Spring Arbor College, Kidd was chosen to paint some Bicentennial designs on machinery by both the plant's management and the workers who recognized his artistic ability.

"I'd like to pursue a career in art," he said. "But while I'm here, I wanted to make the surroundings the best they could be for working."

"It's helping pass the time and keeping the place clean."

"Before you'd take the time to cleanup the place, only to come back the next day and find it messed up."

"Now, it's different. Everyone cares."

The indicators of what "everyone caring" means to the business are kept by Smith and the management at the plant. The "new caring" has resulted in a 25 percent increase in production, and drastic drops in grievances and in absences.

Grievances have been cut by 50 percent and absence rates dropped by 20 percent during the four months Smith has been on the job. In addition, less waste from spoiled work is sent out by the plant.

"It's a real tribute to these men," Smith said. "I've always known that not one wheel made in Kelsey Hayes comes out of the plant manager's office, and that means the workers on the line are important."

"My philosophy has been to treat them with the same dignity I'd expect them to treat me with."

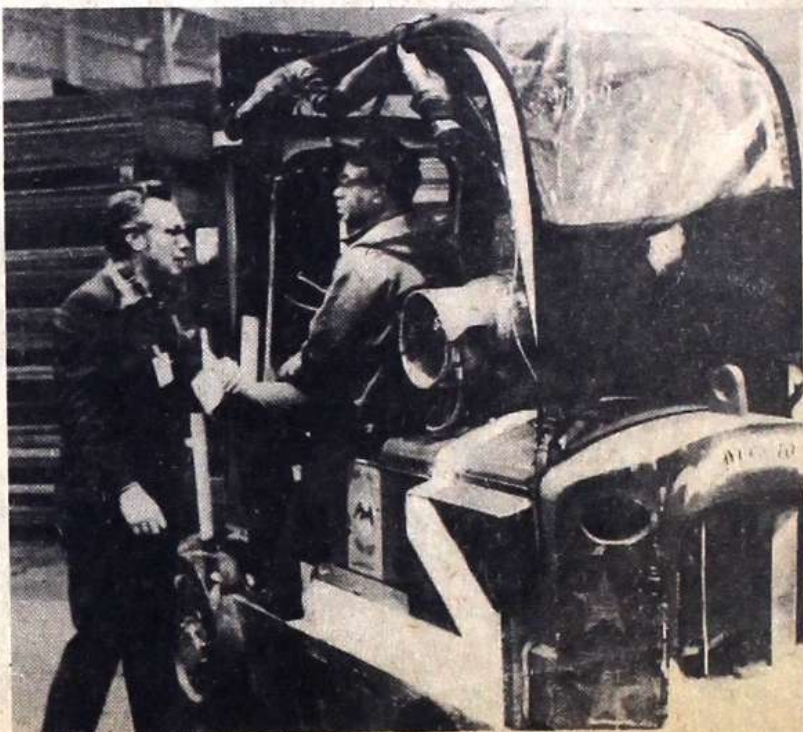

The workers appreciate it.

Said Greg Brothers, 25, of Romulus: "Before when the line was down, we'd stay out of the way."

"Now there's work to do to keep the plant up."

Added Mitchell: "There were times before when I'd get up in the morning and say, 'ah, what the heck, I'm staying home.' It doesn't seem to happen anymore."

"Coming to work isn't that bad these days."

Dave Mann (left) labor relations manager at the Kelsey Hayes plant in Romulus, chats with William Wylie, a hi-lo driver during Wylie's regular rounds on his Bicentennial theme machine. Wylie along with hundreds of other workers at the Kelsey Hayes plant, took up a company offer of free paint to decorate their regular working machinery. Employee morale picked up so much, according to plant manager Earl C. Smith, that similar projects are being sought for the future. Production increased by 25 percent after the project was implemented. Workers got so caught up in the project that they asked Westland resident Joe Kidd, a former art student, to use his talents in decorating the machinery. — Photo by the Romulus Roman Chief Photographer Lothar E. Black history comes to life for students

The "forgotten people" of American history are being recognized in one small way at a Romulus elementary school.

Juanita Singleton, a veteran of more than 20 years of teaching in the Romulus Community School District, and an elementary teacher in Romulus Elementary School, has turned her life-long hobby of collecting memorabilia on black history into an educational tool for the youngsters at the school.

A fulltime teacher in the school system for the past 11 years, and a substitute prior to that, Mrs. Singleton said she is taking it upon herself in a 1-person campaign to "bring out the history on a national, state and local levels which never have been put before the students."

The education comes in the form of a pictorial display in the teacher's classroom, depicting events in American history which were important to the country, but which have been ignored in part because the principals in those events were Black.

"The idea is to inform all peoples of the contributions of all black men and women to the strength of this country," Mrs. Singleton said. "I have information dating back into the 1700s which shows the importance of black people in the shaping of the nation."

Although always a black history student, Mrs. Singleton began collecting information in earnest during the past four years.

"I've always been very interested in knowing about my people and what they've done for our culture today," Mrs. Singleton added. "That interest has allowed me to make a collection of information, which is valuable, to share with all other people."

Included in the display is a picture of Detroit Mayor Coleman Young, the first black mayor of the city, and Romulus Elementary School principal Ellis Stewart.

"My goal is to bring it out for the children and those who view the display what these people who have been left out of the history books did do for this nation," Mrs. Singleton said.

Stewart, who has been at the school for just a year, said he okayed the display "because I believe it will help the self-awareness of not only black children, but all children in this school."

"Educationally, it's important in clarifying the contributions all Americans have made to this nation," he added. "I think it's done in a very interesting and fine way, and the display is a tribute to Mrs. Singleton's hard work."

The Romulus Elementary School PTA has been invited to view the work and has been asked to distribute information on it to the general community.

Officials pool taxes; Battle drain agency

By JIM CARAVALLAH
Of The Roman Staff

Officials of at least five area communities, including Van Buren Township, have pooled their money in the first step toward suing Wayne County Drain Commissioner Charles N. Youngblood.

The communities — the townships of Brownstown, Canton and Van Buren — and the cities of Riverview and Romulus, are contesting the drain commissioner's right to assess residents up to $800 per mile for "drain improvements" which never were done on their drainage systems.

Van Buren Township Supervisor G. Elton Gollwitzer said the effort may be the beginning of a massive movement on the part of all communities in Wayne County to end, what the supervisor believes, is an unfair tax on citizens of the county.

"There has been no requirement that work be performed on community drains to collect the $800 per mile assessment," Gollwitzer said. "Without the work requirement, the collection amounts to another way to finance county services while not using millage paid the county for those purposes."

Gollwitzer fears a continuing county effort to divert the better than 7-mill tax charged each community for county services to indirect operations while taking extra taxes, as the special assessment, to finance the direct services, boosting each residents' net tax.

"We've tried to fight this other ways," Gollwitzer said. "When the township first discovered that the tax was being collected at large from the township government, the Board of Trustees voted to withhold it until it received concessions from the drain commissioner that no work would be performed without first informing the township."

"But after the understanding was reached, the township still was billed for services which never were announced. And when the money was withheld, the county began billing individuals through the special assessments."

Treasurers in each of the five communities are collecting the special assessment tax on behalf of the drain commissioner, however, the funds are being held in escrow and are not being sent to the county.

"I hope that by withholding the payment of the funds, it will force the drain commissioner to sue for them, and in that process, the communities could challenge his right to collect the funds in the first place," Gollwitzer said.

The supervisor added that an earlier decision which indicated local governments couldn't use taxpayers money to sue on the behalf of individual citizens was avoided in the present suit.

"Since the township treasurer in each community collects the funds, that makes him liable for them, if they're illegal," Gollwitzer said.

"Since the treasurer could be engaged in an illegality, though not through his own actions, then the community can sue."

In Van Buren district

Kindergarten registration opens

Parents with youngsters, who will be 5 years old on, or before, Dec. 1, and reside within the Van Buren Public School District can enroll their children in school during Pre-Kindergarten Registration Days.

The registration program will permit parents and their children to talk with the principals and kindergarten teachers of their respective schools and to get acquainted with the classroom atmosphere.

School nurses also will be on hand to explain the necessary immunizations needed to start school, and social workers also will be providing ideas on summer activities to prepare children for kindergarten in the fall.

To enroll children, parents should bring the child's birth certificate, or other legal proof of age, the dates the youngster received immunizations and records of any communicable diseases the child had and the dates of the occurrences.

According to school officials, the registration is necessary to plan school assignments in the fall.

Parents unable to register their children at their nearby school can enroll their youngsters at any school in the district on the days indicated for registration.

Children living in the Independence Square, Van Buren Estates and Forest Park subdivisions can register at the Haggerty Road, Quirk Road and Edgemont Elementary Schools on the specified days.

The registration schedule will be: —Edgemont Elementary School, from 9 to 10 a.m. for names beginning in A through F and from 10 to 11 a.m. and for G through L on March 1, and from 1 to 2 p.m. for M through R and from 2 to 3 p.m. for S through Z on March 10.

—Elwell Elementary School, from 1 to 2 p.m. for A through F and from 2 to 3 p.m. for G through L on March 1 and from 9 to 10 a.m. for M through R and from 10 to 11 a.m. for S through Z on March 10.

—Quirk Road Elementary School, from 9 to 10 a.m. for A through F and from 10 to 11 a.m. for G through L on March 2 and from 1 to 2 p.m. for M through R and from 2 to 3 p.m. for S through Z on March 12.

Experts will consider proposal to renovate warehouse as jail

Wayne County Board Chairman Roscoe L. Bobo will appoint a committee of outside experts to judge the merits of a proposal to convert a downtown Detroit warehouse into a jail facility.

Bobo said he will assemble a group from the fields of architecture, engineering, corrections, finance and local government to compare the warehouse proposal to the County's preliminary plans for a new downtown jail annex for 400 prisoners.

At the same time, Bobo issues a report which reportedly shows that the board of Commissioners since 1970 "has been working diligently to provide a permanent solution" to the need for additional jail capacity.

"The only real solution to the need for more jail cells is a permanent structure that meets all state codes," Bobo said added: "We have been trying to avoid the kind of costly temporary arrangements now being forced upon us by judicial order. If the claims of the warehouse sponsors are borne out by an impartial study, it might provide a lasting solution acceptable to all parties."

Bobo referred to the action of a panel of three Wayne County Circuit Court judges. The judicial panel ruled Sheriff William Lucas in contempt of court for housing more than 720 prisoners in the county jail in downtown Detroit.

As a result, the County Commissioners on Feb. 5 approved plans for housing 250 jail inmates at the Detroit House of Correction (DeHoCo) for 90 days while a vacant building on the ground of Wayne County General Hospital is prepared for longer-range temporary use. The board earmarked $2,050,000 to cover the initial cost of the two projects.

Total costs are expected to come to about $5.5 million for a full year, according to county estimates.

Bobo said the outlays forced the commissioners to resort to deficit spending which likely will result in sharp cutbacks in public services later this year.

"The taxpayers would be better served if that money were applied to the cost of a permanent jail facility," he said after the Grossman Co., a Southfield realty firm, submitted its third version of the proposed conversion of the warehouse to a jail.

The realty firm has an option to buy the J.L. Hudson Co. warehouse at Madison and Brush.

The firm claims that first-phase housing for 112 inmates could be ready within eight months after contracts are signed, with the entire project to be completed in 18 months. It would house 400 inmates and be linked to the present jail by tunnel.

The warehouse backers propose that the county purchase the converted warehouse outright for $18 million or take a 25-year lease-purchase agreement which would cost $57.5 million.

Preliminary plans for a new 400-inmate jail facility on the site of the old Recorder's Court Building were submitted to the 3-judge panel by the Board of Commissioners last September. Construction would take three years at a cost of $20 million, according to estimates.

Grossman & Co. was allowed to intervene in the jail case before the 3-judge panel after the second version was turned down. The County Buildings Division concluded the warehouse would not be suitable as a jail.

In his report, Bobo listed more than 25 steps taken by the Board of Commissioners to improve present jail facilities and to expand the jail capacity. Among the highlights were the following:

—In 1969 the board appropriated $1.5 million for renovation of the present jail.

—In 1970 the board hired outside consultants to study the correctional needs of the county.

—In 1971 the board adopted a correctional master plan for additional jail facilities.

—In 1972 the board put a jail construction millage proposal on the ballot, but it was turned down by the voters.

Tax form answers needed to obtain revenue sharing

Western Wayne County taxpayers may find some special questions to be answered in the Internal Revenue Services 1040 income tax forms.

According to Wayne County Commissioners Royce E. Smith, said it is of "the utmost importance that residents take the time to answer the questions carefully so that their communities receive their proper share of revenue sharing dollars from the federal government."

The questions Smith is referring to appear below the taxpayer's address at the top of the 1040 forms. The information deals with the taxpayer's city or township of residence.

"The formulas that determine the amount of money local cities and townships will receive is based on this census information from the federal income tax form," Smith added. "It is estimated that some communities in Western Wayne County have doubled or tripled their population in the past five years."

"All have shown tremendous growth. Considering the high taxes we all pay, obviously no one wants to miss out on a single dollar our local governments have coming to them."

In 1975 $6.3 billion was disbursed to the 50 states and the District of Columbia. Michigan was sixth nationally, receiving $266 million. The amounts per capita received by Western Wayne County communities ranged from $4 to $13 in revenue sharing.

"I can't stress too strongly that citizens answer the census information carefully on their 1040 and 1040 A forms," Smith added.

Committee seeks idea for float

Members of the Sumpter Township Bicentennial Committee are looking for some good ideas on the type of float the community intends to build for the massive Wayne County Bicentennial Parade.

James West, parade coordinator, asks that ideas for the float be sent to him at 19180 Clark Road, Belleville 48111.

Information on the parade can be obtained by calling West at 753-9573.

The float will be entered in the 200-vehicle Wayne County Bicentennial Parade, slated for May on Woodward Avenue in Detroit.

Parade organizers are touting it as the "largest parade in the world."

NURSING: Many dedicate their lives

By RUSSEL TUTTLE
Director of Community Relations
Peoples Community Hospital Authority

Rosemary Ball was a freshman student at Central Michigan University. Her first assignment in English was to write a theme which was to be concerned with an event during the preceding summer which had left a strong impression on her. She had spent that summer working as a nurses aide at St. Joseph's Hospital in Tawas City preparatory to accepting an academic scholarship to Central to train for a career as a teacher.

The theme she completed was a powerful discourse — she still has it to this day — on the role of the nurse in the total process of delivering health care.

Her grade on the theme was "A," and on the last page her instructor wrote a note: "Miss Ball, are you sure you want to be a teacher? From what I've read here, I'd say your heart is in nursing."

The comment of that college instructor stuck with her, and at the end of her freshman year she gave up her scholarship and enrolled in Nazareth College, Division of Nursing, in Kalamazoo.

She graduated from Nazareth, and now is known as Rosemary Butler, RN, supervisor of nursing at Annapolis Hospital. She has been with Annapolis since 1962 and has been a supervisor since 1972.

"I opted for nursing training

'From what I've read here, I'd say your heart is in nursing.'

because my desire to help people who could not help themselves was greater than my desire to teach," she said.

Nurses, in their day-to-day activities certainly see things at times which are distressing. However, they also are able to participate in a team effort to help effect cures for people in acute physical trauma.

She said that if one is considering nursing as a career, then one's motivation clearly must extend beyond the ordinary considerations of outstanding pay schedules and fringe benefit packages.

"A Nurse, by definition, must be other-directed. She must have a curiosity about disease and the procedures employed either to prevent the onset of the disease, or to work to help cure it," she said.

She added that it has been her experience that frequently nurses find a satisfying degree of self-fulfillment as they work to help others.

(We have used the pronoun 'she' only to simplify sentence construction, although approximately 97 per cent of the nurses in the United States are female.)

A nurse at times must be very strong, and thus appear to be one who is cold and distant.

Mrs. Butler explained: "A nurse must follow the orders written by the physician for the management of the case. While I'll agree that there are those times when the therapy ordered may be momentarily uncomfortable, the patients must understand that the procedures and medicines employed have been proven to be essential components of the over-all cure process."

"While we are insistent that the patient follow his physician's orders to the letter, people must understand that we at all times retain our humanity."

Mrs. Butler supervises the care rendered on the third floor of Annapolis Hospital. She schedules and manages the efforts of 55 personnel including desk secretaries, orderlies, aides and nurses. The third floor has two sections: pediatrics and general medical-surgical. The pediatrics unit will be discussed separately in a future column.

The nurses in the medical-surgical (generally called med-surg) rooms are involved in a concept of care called team nursing. Team nursing is a system of care in which the nurses are with the patient from the first day of admission, through pre-operation, post-operation and discharge.

These nurses pass medications, administer IM's (intra-muscular hypodermics, or "shots"), start IV's (intravenous feeding), monitor vital signs, collect specimens for laboratory analysis, catheterize, help bathe and generally serve as empathetic ears while maintaining professional dignity and standards.

She ended the interview by saying: "Just as in most professions, there are certain frustrations in nursing. However, the rewards far outweigh those frustrations."

Columns in the following weeks will be addressed to the various specialties in nursing, as nursing now is a career with almost as many specialties as medicine.

As they see it

A disservice!

To the editor: Wayne County commissioners, (our part-time county representatives who recently have raised their salaries to $14,000) have done Western Wayne County residents a great disservice.

Warned since 1971 of an impending "jail crisis" at the Wayne County Jail they have only now begun to seek alternatives.

The alternative selected is to place dangerous criminals at DeHoCo, a structure designed for minimal risk cases. After only three or four days of planning and a few more fences DeHoCo is supposedly ready for Detroit's worst elements.

Who is to blame?

How can we keep the new jail site away from our communities and neighborhoods?

Residents of Western Wayne County had better keep track of its county Commissioner Royce Smith, the Democrat from Belleville, who did not seem to possess enough influence to keep this situation from our area.

Even if the argument is used that a new jail has to go somewhere proper planning would have dictated that a jail for dangerous felons be placed in an area where security and population safety problems would be minimal. And that certainly is not the Five Mile Road area.

Western Wayne County voters should recall this situation when elections arrive this summer and fall.

To assess property

Supervisor may lose part of job

By WES THORP
Panax Lansing Bureau

Township supervisors around the state should take note of a study group formed by Gov. Milliken to look at the local property tax.

The supervisors may be on the way to losing an important part of their job, the assessing of property in their townships for taxing purposes.

It's a job which can give an ambitious township supervisor a great deal of power and influence. This is because his assessment of a piece of property, whether it be residential or commercial, can mean the difference of hundreds and in some cases thousands of dollars on one's property tax bill.

The problem is that most supervisors are not qualified assessors. The state has tried to remedy this by requiring township supervisors to become certified in their assessing skills, but still their assessing, in most areas, is done in an unprofessional manner.

This can be for several reasons. The supervisor could like his job and just not want to alienate a potential voter by assessing that voter's property at a level which would make him unhappy.

As a result, there could be property in his township which is assessed at a fraction of what it should be.

Then there's the township supervisor who uses the assessing power to gain favors from property owners which is a variation of the above, but a tad more blatant, and could result in the property owner getting his assessment raised.

This leads back to Milliken's property tax task force.

First, you need some background about study committees.

Usually, the person or group appointing the committee wants the group to make recommendations which fit certain pre-conceived ideas about what should be done.

Milliken and legislators, who serve on study committees, would deny this, but to study committee watchers such actions have been developed into an art form.

Example: The property tax administration sub-committee of Milliken's task force is composed of a distinguished group of people involved in the administration of the tax.

Most are local officials, county and city, and probably have a sincere desire to develop recommendations for Milliken to make sound improvements to the administration of the system.

However, there's another element to the study committees which people tend to overlook — the professional staff.

In this instance, it's a top official of the State Department of the Management and Budget. It's these people who will present the study committee members with the research papers and proposed recommendations which they will act on.

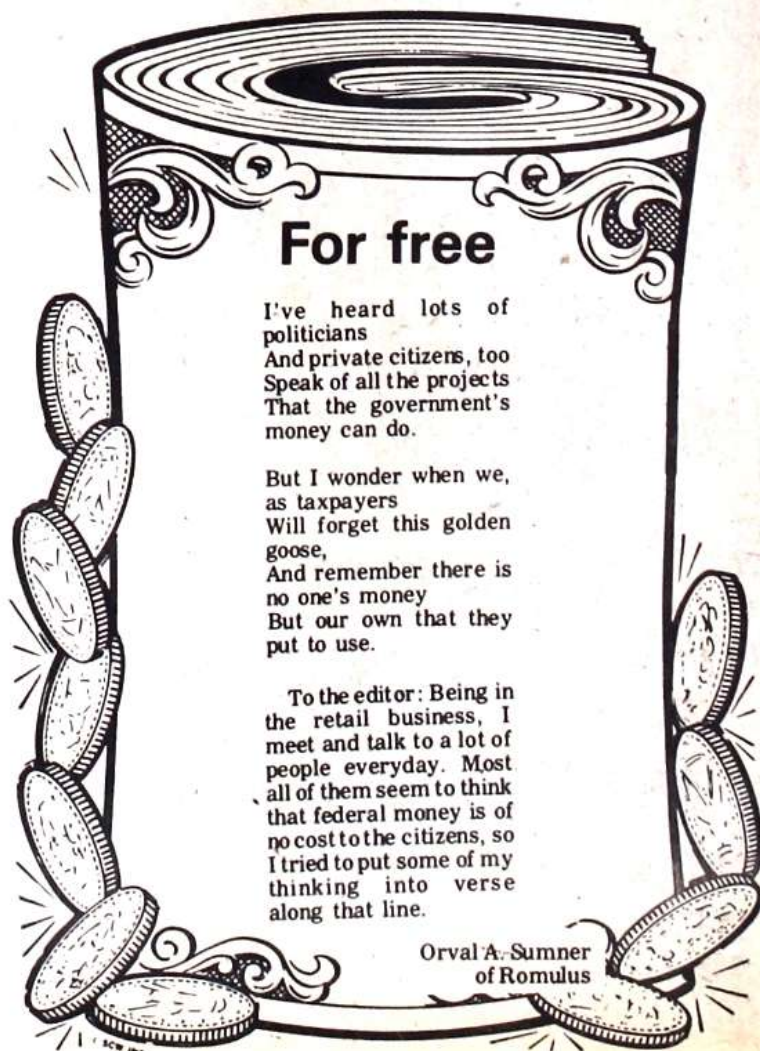

The professional staffers for the property tax administration sub-committee have very subtly suggest that its members look at the idea of eliminating the assessing function from the township supervisor.

They casually mentioned the possibility of creating assessing districts which would be composed of counties that would have the resources to hire the necessary professional staff to do a competent job.

The suggestion wasn't pushy. It was a very gentle nudge which will be kept on for the life of the committee. And, judging from Milliken's success with past task forces and committees, in a few months there will be a recommendation to relieve township supervisors from their assessing job.

Then Milliken will release a statement saying he supports the recommendation of his blue-ribbon task force composed of experts in the field.

For free

I've heard lots of politicians And private citizens, too Speak of all the projects That the government's money can do.

But I wonder when we, as taxpayers Will forget this golden goose, And remember there is no one's money But our own that they put to use.

To the editor: Being in the retail business, I meet and talk to a lot of people everyday. Most all of them seem to think that federal money is of no cost to the citizens, so I tried to put some of my thinking into verse along that line.

Flowers

A flower is a pretty thing until the time goes by Then as it wilts and fades away
It makes me sad and sigh.

But later on some other kind
Do bloom then for a while
And as I see the lovely sight
It makes me once more smile

Fairy Pussies

Pussies don't like rain drops
But I know some that do
Tiny furry pussies,
That bathe in rain and dew.

They perched in a willow
It then was way last fall
But you couldn't see them
Those tiny buds so small

Now in the warm spring time
In the willow I see
Tiny fairy pussies
It's such a thrill for me

But those pretty pussies
So tiny can not roam
I put them in a vase
Enjoy them in my home

To the editor: Because I am sick, I spend most of my time in bed. But when it was warmer, I went outside for a while to get some fresh air. I would look at the flowers.

But I couldn't look at them very long because I couldn't stay outside very long. So I picked some flowers, took them in my bedroom, so I could look at them for a long time.

I wrote the poem, "Flowers" when I was younger and not as sick as now. I used to pick pussy willows and bring them in the house. I hope you like at least one of my poems and that you can use one or both of them.

Tight revenue overshadows Legislature

The Legislature faces many challenges in 1976, with tight revenue the situation overlaying all issues and forcing a hard look at any potential sources of new income for the state, according to State Rep. Gary M. Owen (D-22nd District).

Owen added that Gov. William G. Milliken's State of the State speech last month reflected the situation the state now is facing.

"House Speaker (Bobby) Crim has set the first priority as the need to learn from the recession to end the inadequacies of current methods of funding and administering programs essential to the social well-being of the people of Michigan," the representative said. "He went on to urge a concentrated effort to remodel the State Welfare Act into a structure with a new level of responsibility toward the just and efficient functioning of welfare programs."

"That responsibility should be shouldered by clients, caseworkers, administrators and service providers," he added. "State reform should be accompanied by an organized effort to promote revisions from the federal level."

According to Owen, some of the other issues being promoted by the Speaker of the State House of Representatives are an issue-by-issue revision of the "inadequate patchwork" of the Workers Compensation Law, passage of a land use planning bill, a major transportation bonding proposal to expand mass transit opportunities for Michigan residents and a more equitable treatment of women by insurance companies.

Owen said the belt-tightening at the state level will continue to include the State House. One move by the representatives to keep track of expense is to publish quarterly reports of out-of-state travel costs in the House Journal.

Owen added that although House employees have been denied cost of living allowances for two quarters, civil service workers have continued to receive their allotments. The former denial will save the state $60,000.

"This strict control on the responsible use of state funds will extend into the 'trust in spending' approach to the appropriations process whereby each program and

'State reform should be accompanied by an organized effort to promote revisions from the federal level...'

each dollar requested by state agencies must be justified in order to gain final approval," the representative said.

A common transportation fund, consolidating present taxes and including money from a new transportation bond proposal is a way of making such planning more flexible in the state the governor foresees, according to Owen.

Milliken has endorsed the use of capital outlay bonds to finance new state construction, including the modernization of University Hospital in Ann Arbor, and backs the final approval of mandatory minimum sentences for those using firearms in the commission of crimes, the creation of a job bank to better match job openings with the unemployed, and another attempt at teacher strike legislation.

Owen said the governor also is in favor of the creation of a state energy administration to look into the supply and demand for energy on a long-term basis.

"That message (the governor's budget message) and the detailed information on how he would allocate funds among various state agencies will receive a close look from the Legislature," Owen concluded. "The long process of working out a full budget may not be finished until early next fall when the new fiscal year actually begins."

PTO sets millage meeting

Home Arts Club learns plastic craft

Twenty members responded to roll call at the Feb. 9 meeting of the Home Arts Club of Belleville. Vice-president Beverly Eichold presided at the meeting.

Lois Wilson of the program committee introduced the guest speaker for the evening, Roland Wolfe (the husband of member Muriel Wolfe), who presented a demonstration of plastic crafts. Using border strips of lead and a soldering iron, he showed how frames are made for a variety of shapes.

With the use of a projector and screen he showed the many ways the art can be utilized. From the simple shape of a round pendant to the more intricate tiered dishes, room dividers, bowls, etc., he explained the art of using kitchen crystals and the lead forms.

He described the tools and materials necessary for the work and then constructed a hanging ornament as an example. The group later was given the choice of several shapes — a bell, star, sunburst, rooster, angel, seagull, mushroom — with which to make their own "mobile." The speaker had made all the forms for the members to use and then baked the items before the evening was over.

While their designs were being fired, members were served dessert by Lee Smith, Frances Jobe and Shar Tator, hostesses for the evening. The trio used a Bicentennial theme for their buffet table in honor of the birthdays of Lincoln and Washington.

The March meeting will feature Marshall Wiede, Belleville High School ecology teacher, who will have pictures on the Huron River—then and now. Members are welcome to bring guests.

Mae Fielder is hostess at luncheon

The February meeting of the Past Matrons' Association of Belleville Chapter No. 73, O.E.S., met at the South Street home of Past Matron Mae Fielder on Feb. 5.

Fourteen members were present for the 12:30 luncheon served at tables decorated with the Valentine theme. The president, Dorothy Kellas, conducted a short business meeting with the chaplain, Beatrice Boldt, having the devotions.

Appropriate pencil and paper games were later enjoyed with awards being won by Dorothy Kellas, Elda Bohl, Frances McAtee and Eva Luper.

The March 4 hostess will be the president, Dorothy Kellas, who will entertain at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Charles Kidwell at 44488 Ellen Drive.

Brian Harkai is first year party boy

Brian Matthew Harkai, who was born on Feb. 4, 1975, had one candle on his cake when his parents entertained Feb. 1 at a spaghetti supper in his honor. Dennis and Diane Harkai of Willis Road played host to their son's grandparents, Frank and Betty Harkai of Belleville and Dennis Istvan of Southgate, and also the great-grandparents, Marion Collins of Stanwood, Mich. and Charles Dubisky of Belleville.

Other relatives were in from Detroit and Belleville to share the meal and special cake made by Debbie Hendricks of Belleville. The birthday boy's brother, Christopher who's 3½, also enjoyed the clown, balloon and streamer decorations which added a festive note to the party.

Patriotic pork chops

Keep alive that cherry tree tradition and celebrate George Washington's birthday with flavorful broiled pork chops topped with brandied cherry sauce. Place chops, cut 1 to 1½ inches thick, on rack in broiler pan so tops of chops are about 5 inches from heat; broil 25 to 40 minutes, until well done, turning occasionally. Season with salt and pepper and serve with a cherry sauce made by heating cherry pie filling with a little brandy.

Tucker-Black wed in Biloxi, Miss.

Two members of the U.S. Air Force, Shawn Black and Ted P. Tucker, were united in marriage Jan. 17 in Biloxi, Miss. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard L. Black of Belgrade, Mont. and her bridegroom the son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas A. Tucker of Belleville.

A reception for the newlyweds is planned for Feb. 21 at the Belleville Manor Recreation Hall on Belleville Road.

A 1974 graduate of Belleville High School, Tucker was employed by the Ford Motor Co. in Ypsilanti prior to joining the service one year ago. Both he and his bride recently graduated from electronic school at Keesler Air Force Base in Biloxi.

Mrs. Tucker will be in the electronic repair unit when they transfer to Griffith Air Force Base in Rome, N.Y. Her husband will be installing equipment throughout the United States, Iceland, Greenland and Europe.

Quotes worth quoting...

Robert Louis Stevenson said it.

By Mrs. Joseph Spring
699-4021

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Robson of Haggerty Road recently returned from a 2-week trip to Florida where they visited a former neighbor, Mrs. W. Keeling at Tampa, and other friends in Melbourne. They also toured the Everglades National Park and Disney World.

Previous to the Florida trip the Robsons had spent a week in St. Louis attending the American Farm Bureau Convention.

After having spent the past two weeks in Florida, Mrs. Betty Fulton of Liberty Street returned home last week. Making the trip with friends, Mr. and Mrs. Vern Clark of Bemis Road, as far as St. Petersburg, she met her son-in-law and daughter, Mr.

and Mrs. Alex Love and small son, Jason, and the former's mother, Mrs. Ann Love, of Blackwood, N.J. She spent some time with them visiting at Orlando and going to Disney World.

Mr. and Mrs. Grahl Raymond of Spring Arbor and Mr. and Mrs. Earl Wright of Willis recently enjoyed dinner together at the home of the ladies' sister and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Carnahan of East Huron River Drive. Later in the afternoon all called at the home of a brother and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Sparrow of Ypsilanti.

Mrs. Minnie Moser of San Antonio, Texas, Mrs. Frank Hoag of Liberty Street and Mr. and Mrs. Willis Moser of Bedell Street were recent dinner guests at the home of the latter's daughter, Mrs. Glena Brown of Taylor.

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Dennison, daughters, Debbie and Valerie, and son, Curtis of Plymouth, enjoyed a recent visit with Mrs. Joseph Spring of Liberty Street.

Weekend guests at the Harold Clayton home on Bedell Street were their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Munce and sons, Michael and Bradley, of Detroit. The occasion was in celebration of Mrs. Clayton's birthday.

Mrs. Ward Neely of Westland recently spent several days at the home of her son-in-law and daughter,

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Welt of Willis Road.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Amerman of Polson, Mont. and Jonesville, Mich., were calling on friends in the community and were recent overnight guests of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Deering of West Columbia Avenue.

Little Laura Orr of Westland was a weekend guest of her paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Orr of Harmony Lane.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Smith of Detroit were recent dinner guests of the former's mother, Mrs. Muriel Smith of Liberty Street.

Weekend guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Leon Bokdt of Roland Street were the latter's nephew and wife, S. Sgt. and Mrs. Lyle Cubberly, and two small children, Laura and Benjamin, of Chanute Field, Ill.

On Feb. 8 Mrs. B. P. Hopson, Mr. and Mrs. William Henderson of Belleville Road and Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Little and small son, William, of Wayne were dinner guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Westra of Lincoln Park. The occasion was in celebration of William's first birthday.

Recent luncheon guests of Mrs. Charles McKelvey of Bemis Road were her aunts, Mrs. Minnie Moser of San Antonio, Texas and Mrs. Frank Hoag of Liberty Street; a cousin, Helen Wilson, and friend, Helen Watts of Liberty Street.

After having undergone major surgery at Beyer Hospital in Ypsilanti, Mrs. Chester (Wanda) Zimmer is now convalescing at her home on Martinsville Road.

A family affair

held at 6:30 p.m. in the Father Folta Building, adjacent to St. Anthony's Church. Fashions by Muirhead's of Dearborn will be modeled by local residents and members of the parish. Reservations must be in by Feb. 20. See "It's a Date" for details.

The Players are in final rehearsals

Only nine days until showtime and the cast of "Doctor in the House" is in high gear and adding the finishing patina to their "product."

The crew has moved in (sometimes not so silently), the sets are constructed and painted, the stage and hand props attained and the costumes designed and readied.

Despite the normal set-backs inherent in a large production (not to mention the bit of strain in re-casting the leading man), "The Players" are sailing on that second wind peculiar to "pros."

But sometimes, of course, that pro-like quality isn't always apparent. When Trudy Heath (the props girl) had need to borrow some unusual items, she arranged the delivery by a friend who is a cast member of a neighboring little theatre group.

Unfortunately, she walked in during rehearsal and in the midst of a particularly tricky scene where the lead, Joe Haynes, is directing the efforts of his roommates in their attempts to rehearse for the medical school's annual Christmas play, a moral melodrama of the 18th century.

The entire scene calls for the worst kind of over-acting and ridiculous amount of horseplay. Naturally, Trudy's friend (who was not familiar with the plot-within-a-plot situation) was unable to keep her attention away from the buffoonery on stage.

With a wink at Dorothy Florian, who plays the role of Janet, Trudy inquired as to what her friend thought of the scene being played. As the poor girl stuttered a careful reply coached in the kindest of terms for a rival theatre group, the entire crew burst into laughter behind her.

Her embarrassment-turned-to-confusion was wiped away with Trudy's explanation of the melodrama. In turn, she assured the group that she didn't for a minute believe "The Players" could be that bad! And to prove it before she left, she ordered several tickets for the performance.

Curtain time is 8 p.m. Feb. 27 and 28 at the Belleville High School auditorium. Tickets are $2 and may be purchased from any of "The Players" or at the box office.

Metric system is BPW topic

Faith United Methodist Church in Denton was the meeting spot for the Belleville Business and Professional Women's Club (BPW) on Feb. 2. In observance of "International Week," Feb. 15-21, the church women prepared a smorgasbord with foods from a number of different countries.

The foundation committee, chaired by Arda Riggs, arranged a program to inform members of the soon-to-come metric system. Russell K. Woinowsk, a mathematics teacher at Romulus High School, showed how to "inch forward, toward metric." He brought along a bathroom scale so that the members could weigh themselves metrically and also measure their height with a metric tape measure.

Several charts were used to supplement his talk and questions asked indicated a keen interest in preparing for the change.

During the business meeting, Rosalie O'Hara, Helen Crichton and Leona Farr were welcomed as new members of the club. They were presented with membership certificates and the club flower, pink roses.

Four BPW members have made reservations to attend the National Legislative Conference in Washington, D.C. March 3-5. Sessions will be held on political action, legislative issues and lobbying techniques. Breakfast will be shared with members of congress with Senators Mark Hatfield and Bob Packwood as hosts. Plans have been made for a special White House tour and meetings with individual senators and representatives in their offices on Capitol Hill.

Several members have also made plans to attend "International Night" in Windsor, Ont., on Feb. 28 and 29. This is the occasion when our "Canadian cousins" play host to all BPW Clubs in Michigan, Ohio and Ontario; it being a visible approach by women to strengthen international relations.

All business and professional women in the nation had been requested to observe Feb. 16 as a day of fasting to demonstrate concern for all the hungry people of the world. All food money saved to be contributed to members' favorite charities.

Scouts skate for prizes

Brownies, Juniors and Cadettes from Belleville Girl Scout Troops No. 744, No. 736, No. 486, No. 374, No. 616, No. 668, No. 734 and No. 735 gathered for their annual inter-troop skating party at Woodland Roller Rink in Ypsilanti. Their families and invited guests joined in the fun as they skated to both rock and music from the 50's. Many of the over 200 present joined in doing the Mexican Hat Dance led by Terri Grieve and Robin Mattson.

In addition to races for all boys and girls present, there was racing competition among each Girl Scout level. Trophies made by Cadette Troop No. 745 were presented to first, second and third place finishers in Brownie, Junior and Cadette age groups.

Brownie winners were Becky McArthur of Troop No. 486, Patti Gillingham and Brenda Younts.

First place in Junior competition went to Janet Ryan of Troop No. 734, second to Susan Clayton of troop No. 734 and third to Sandy Mattson of troop No. 668.

Cadettes, all from troop No. 745, saw Toni Grieve finish first, Lynette Aughney, second and Sherry Younts third.

MUSICAL NOTES

by Doug Brown

The modern music of the most serious composers has gone in so many directions that it is hard for the most talented music historians to trace common strains of development. One of the foremost among modern classical composers is Gustav Mahler, known as one of the most prominent representatives of German music at the turn of the century. Mahler's career as a conductor was a dazzling one. At thirty-seven he held one of the best positions in European music as director of the Court Opera in Vienna, and he was acclaimed as one of the greatest conductors of his time.

Many musical instruments have come a long way. Why not see them all on display at DOUG BROWN MUSIC, 9219 S. Wayne Rd. We feature a wide range of band instruments including drums, clarinets, flutes, saxophones and trombones as well as a full line of pianos and organs. Stop in soon, won't you? You'll be glad that you did! Open daily from 10 to 8:30 p.m. and Sat. from 9:30 to 6 p.m.

A file cabinet makes a great place for keeping those music sheets organized.

MR. AND MRS. WILLIS MOSER

Mosers honored on golden year

Tomorrow, Feb. 19, is a very special date in the lives of Mr. and Mrs. Willis Moser of 51 Bedell Street, Belleville — their golden wedding anniversary.

In honor of the occasion, The Rev. John Losen and family (close neighbors of the Mosers) presented a special program at the Feb. 5 meeting of the Belleville Senior Citizens Club. By going back through the Moser's family album, they chose pictures to have made into slides which, in turn, told the story of the couple's married years.

In connection with various memorable events, the Losen family sang songs made popular through the years. Included in the program were tunes such as "I Want a Girl", "Girl of My Dreams", "Sitting on Top of the World" and many others.

The Losen sons, John, 14, and Kevin, 12, and daughter, Andrea, 10, have been singing with their parents and older brother and sister since they were about 3-years of age. The family has traveled through many of the states as well as several foreign countries giving concerts in the six years they have been a part of this community.

At the close of the program, Pastor Losen led the Mosers (Bill and Edna) in a reaffirmation of their marriage vows which had been specially written for the occasion.

Residents of Belleville for all their married lives, the Mosers received relatives and friends during an open house held Feb. 15 at Bethany Baptist Church of Belleville.

Glema Brown, Mildred McAllister, Marilyn Roach, Janet Howard and Carol Romero, the couple's five daughters who all live in the surrounding area, were hostesses at the party.

They've set May for wedding date

Mahalak supports train

State Rep. Edward E. Mahalak (D-Romulus) has taken action to make possible the restoration of the historic steam locomotive No. 1223 at The State Fairgrounds in Detroit.

A resolution introduced in the House by Mahalak would authorize the Michigan State Fair Board and the Michigan Department of Agriculture to accept and solicit funds from interested citizens to restore the locomotive.

Mahalak for a number of months has been active in a drive to save locomotive, which has donated for use as an exhibit. However, the engine has fallen into disrepair and is considered unsafe for exhibition purposes. The fair board has been ordered to either get rid of the locomotive or restore it.

The problem is that the fair board does not have money budgeted for the restoration, according to the representative.

"It is true that the locomotive is in deplorable condition," he said. "Yet, if we do not restore it and allow it to be reduced to scrap, we will have lost a colorful and irreplaceable relic of our railroading past."

Mahalak added that any citizens interested in helping him save the locomotive can write to him in care of the State Capitol, Lansing, Mich. 48901.

Hedman does volunteer work with treasure's association

The former treasurer of Van Buren Township, Ralph Hedman, has been a volunteer worker in the Wayne County Municipal Treasurer's Association since his defeat as the township's chief financial officer.

The treasurer, who was replaced in office by present township Treasurer Dorothy York in 1974, has been acting as the legislative liaison for the Wayne County finance officers' group.

"Even though the man lost his post, he's been active on a volunteer basis," said one veteran member of the group. "He's extremely dedicated."

Hedman has been monitoring legislation which would affect the finance officers' jobs at the municipal level in the liaison post.

Among the items he's been working on is a Tri-county Municipal Treasurer's Association made up of officers from Wayne, Oakland and Macomb counties, and an effort with the Wayne County Board of Commissioners to establish a delinquent tax revolving fund.

Under the tri-county municipal treasurer's set-up, Hedman believes finance officers would have more clout on the State Legislature when it ponders bills important to the financing of communities.

The revolving fund concept is one such project, though at a county level, according to Hedman.

Under the program, the county would borrow money against anticipated tax collections to insure that municipalities receive 100 percent of their tax collections shortly after the bills have been sent to the taxpayers.

Present delinquent tax laws permit taxpayers to delay sending in funds to cover their bills for up to three years. That results in an approximate 92 percent collection rate on taxes in school districts and municipalities.

The revolving fund would result in increased immediate return on taxes while placing the entire burden for delinquent tax collection on Wayne County.

In social studies

He's outstanding teacher

A former Romulus resident has been honored as the year's outstanding social studies teacher in training for the State of Indiana. He is Louis Gallien, the son of Helen Gallien, Romulus' director of finance.

The student of Taylor University in Upland, Ind., who is scheduled to graduate this year, was selected for the state honor by the Indiana Council for Social Studies, based on his scholastic record, participation in campus life, creativity, the evaluation of his methods in teaching, his teaching evaluation and his potential for contributing to the teaching of social studies.

In receiving the honor, Gallien will earn a 1-year membership in the Indiana and National Council for the Social Studies and will be a guest of the Council of Social Studies convention in Indianapolis this spring.

The Romulus resident hopes to teach while continuing his studies in Indiana.

Van Buren district seeks voc ed building trades site

The Van Buren Public School District again is looking for land so that the Vocational Education Building Trades Program at Belleville High School can continue its on-going program next fall.

The basic requirements for the needed land are that it be in the district and be large enough to accommodate a single-family home, as well as meet zoning requirements.

The district would like to purchase a parcel of land large enough to provide several lots for a series of houses. Since the inception of the program, Van Buren students have constructed two homes, which have been sold, and currently are building a third house which will be ready for sale later this spring. Any property owner who might be interested should contact either Bill Nagy, supervisor of the Vocational Education Department, or Jack M. Hosmer, director of business.

Preschool screening to be held

Parents living in the Cory Elementary School attendance area are reminded that the annual preschool screening for children to enter kindergarten next year will be held next week.

The preschool program is designed to test youngsters for any potential problem areas in earning an education.

Included in the tests will be checks of vision, hearing and coordination in an effort to chart the child's development prior to kindergarten.

He earns top marks

A Belleville man was among 641 students at Michigan State University in East Lansing to attain perfect grade point averages during the fall term at the college.

Charles Dougherty, a freshman with no curriculum preference, lives at South Biggs Street. He is a graduate of Belleville High School.

H. F. Museum plans show of souvenirs

Henry Ford Museum turns time back to 1876 and the celebration of the country's 100th birthday with a special exhibit opening Friday. "Centennial Memories" brings together many of the souvenirs that captured the interest and dollars of Americans at Philadelphia's Centennial Exposition of 1876.

That exposition, celebrating a century of American independence and progress, extolled the nation's inventive genius and mass production knowhow, according to a museum spokesman. Visited by 10 million persons, it was the first major U.S. international exhibition to achieve popular success and Americans carried home what keepsakes they could to remember the occasion.

"Centennial Memories" highlights those tangible reminders.

"Housed in the museum's Folk Art Gallery, 'Centennial Memories' is designed to create the atmosphere of our national birthday party of 100 years ago," the spokesman added.

Large photo blow-ups of exposition buildings adorn the walls. An operating fountain, red, white and blue bunting and large potted plants recall the aura of Victorian opulence which marked the historic Centennial Exposition.

The major thrust of "Centennial Memories" is the souvenirs themselves. The items on display are from the Nate S. and Ruth B. Shapero collection of Centennial mementos, a recent gift to Henry Ford Museum. This is their premiere showing at the museum.

The Centennial keepsakes range from commemorative medals to doorknobs. There are the practical items like scenic handkerchiefs and fans and the not-so-practical "Stevens Grafts," woven pictures commemorating America's birth in bright, silky threads, and tiny decorative glass slippers which were actually made at the exposition. Liberty Bell goblets and pressed glass platters which depict scenes from Revolutionary-era America as well as a series of medals cast in memory of General George Washington also are on display.

"Centennial Memories" continues in the museum's Folk Art Gallery through May 28. For ticket information, call 271-1620.

Fractometer Yields Secrets Of Tobacco Flavor.

Researchers use smoke analysis to isolate key flavor ingredients of tobacco—low tar MERIT with 'Enriched Flavor' achieved.

Not all ingredients of tobacco in cigarette smoke deliver the same amount of taste.

Or tar.

That's what researchers at Philip Morris discovered using an analytical fractometer to "crack" cigarette smoke down into its various parts.

Relying on this very sensitive, very special instrument, over 2000 separate ingredients were isolated and analyzed.

What this analysis revealed was startling:

There are ingredients in cigarette smoke—key flavor-rich ingredients—that deliver taste way out of proportion to tar.

Ingredients that, when packed into a tobacco blend, result in a cigarette that delivers extraordinary flavor without the usual corresponding increase in tar.

The discovery is called 'Enriched Flavor'. It comes in the tobacco of a remarkable new cigarette: MERIT.

'Enriched Flavor' is extra flavor. Natural flavor. Flavor that can't burn out, can't fade out, can't do anything but come through for you.

In fact, MERIT delivers the flavor of cigarettes having more tar.

Up to 60% more tar.

Yet MERIT has only 9 mg. of tar. Lower than 98% of all cigarettes being sold today.

If you're looking to become a low tar smoker, or don't particularly enjoy the taste of the low tar brand you smoke now—you'll be interested.

Taste-Tested By People Like You

9 mg. tar MERIT was taste-tested against five current leading, low tar brands ranging from 11 mg. to 15 mg. tar.

Thousands of filter smokers were involved, smokers like yourself, tested at home.*

The results were conclusive:

Even if the cigarette tested had 60% more tar than MERIT, a significant majority of all smokers tested reported new 'Enriched Flavor' MERIT delivered more taste.

Repeat: delivered more taste.

In similar tests against 11 mg. to 15 mg. menthol brands, 9 mg. tar MERIT MENTHOL performed strongly too, delivering as much—or more—taste than the higher tar brands tested.

You've been smoking "low tar, good taste" claims long enough. Now you've got the cigarette. MERIT. Incredible smoking pleasure at one of the lowest tar levels in smoking today—only 9 mg. tar. From Philip Morris.

Belleville bursts Salem cage bubble

Tigers jolt No. 1 ranked Plymouth, 63-57

By TOM MOORADIAN
Sports Editor

Belleville proved a point Friday night and it cost Plymouth Salem its coveted No. 1 state cage ranking.

"If there were any questions about our ability to play with the better ball clubs in this state," said Belleville Coach Tom Niemi, "then our victory over Salem should dispel them."

"We beat the No. 1 team in the state and we did it by playing a super ball game," Niemi added.

Belleville's 63-57 victory snapped Salem's 15-game winning streak. It also cut the Rocks' home victory streak at 32 games.

However, Salem is still in control of the Suburban 8 Conference cage title race. With three games remaining, Plymouth has a 10-1 won-lost record, while Belleville is a notch down at 9-2.

In order for Niemi's Tigers to share the title they would have to win the rest of their games — Bentley, Dearborn and Allen Park — while they would get help from eight one of Salem's remaining three league rivals — Edsel Ford, Allen Park or Dearborn.

Since all three of Salem's remaining foes are playing sub .500 ball in the league, the chances of a Plymouth upset are slim.

Using a specially devised defense to stop Salem's prolific scorer, 6-7½ center Jim Ellinghausen, Belleville stunned their hosts by jumping to a 13-0 lead.

Narvell Turner hit seven of his nine shots in that opening period and collected 15 points to stake the Tigers to a 24-9 lead.

But Salem recovered thanks to Ellinghausen who dropped in nine of his 25 points in the second period to bring the then undefeated defending champs to within two points, 28-26, of catching the Tigers.

Belleville responded by scoring the first six points of the third period to get some elbow room but, again, a Rock spurt carried them to within one 41-40 of tying the game.

Dennis Easley, hampered by four personal fouls, provided the Tigers with the scoring power and board control in the final eight minutes as he made several key plays.

Belleville managed to outscore its rivals 13-9 in the third period while both teams exchanged baskets equally (22-all) in the last eight minutes.

Turner and Ellinghausen shared individual scoring honors. Each had 25. Belleville also received 10 rebounds and 10 points from Easley and nine points from Kevin Barnes.

The Tigers also shot 44 percent for the night, realizing 24 of 54 attempts field goals as compared to Salem's 23 of 60 or 38 percent from the floor.

Salem cashed in on 11 of 22 free throws to Belleville's 15 of 26. The Tigers had the edge on the boards 35-29 as George Thompkins accounted for 12 Belleville rebounds.

Earlier in the week, Belleville turned back a determined Edsel Ford team 77-73.

Belleville's Ron Curtis accounted for the only other Tiger first place when he turned in a 1:01.5 in winning the 100-yard backstroke.

The 14th running of the WW meet, held at Westland John Glenn, saw three meet records erased from the boards.

Plymouth Salem's foursome of Finley, Kohler, Brown and Burton churned a 1:47.20 to establish a new mark in that event, while Salem's Ron Finley set a fast pace in the 500-yard freestyle and finished with the winning time 5:04.95.

Finley's time erased Steve Christie's record of 5:10.72 from the boards. Christie finished second with a 5:05.37 effort.

The only other record to fall was in the 400-yard freestyle relay where Cherry Hill coach Jerry Pawloski assembled the foursome of Paul moved from a 19-16 first period vantage point to a 34-29 halftime margin. The Tigers blew a 10 point lead temporarily as Edsel's "hot-shooting" Andy Sitarski pumped through four quick baskets to move the T-Birds out in front, 51-50.

However, Belleville outscored their rivals 27-24 in the stretch to clinch the his team high 24 points in the final eight minutes. Belleville led all of the first half as it

They did it again

Spotting Plymouth Salem 26 points via a disqualification in the medley relay, Belleville swimmers came back to capture the 14th running of the Western Wayne Swimming & Diving Invitational held at Westland John Glenn. Coach Sam Vicchy's Tigers beat out a field of eight other area teams to retain the title. Making the first place trophy presentation to Vicchy, (kneeling at right) is Tom Mooradian, The Daily Eagle and Associated Newspapers' sports editor, (at right). The complete WW Swim Invitational results will appear in Wednesday's edition.

Flanked by Plymouth Salem cagers, Belleville's Dennis Easley (23) flies up for a rebound in Friday's rematch between the two Suburban 8 Conference powers. Belleville snapped a 36-game Salem winning streak on the home floor by jolting the previously undefeated and No. 1 ranked Class A team in the state, 63-57. The victory however left the Tigers one win shy of catching the league-leading Plymouth quintet.

Board control

Romulus edges

Robichaud, 68-67

Will the real Romulus High cage team please stand up?

The erratic Eagles, who have a victory over Belleville stashed away, are causing Coach Jesse Meriweather's hair to turn white prematurely.

Meriweather saw his charges take it on the chin last week at the University of Detroit against Detroit Southeastern 90-66, then Friday night the local quintet barely got by a Dearborn Heights Robichaud quintet, 68-67.

Robichaud has not won a game in its conference, (the Suburban Athletic League) since the league's inception three years ago.

"It's difficult to put your fingers on it," Meriweather said. "One moment we look good enough to take on anyone, and the next, well, we look bad."

That adjective described Romulus' performance against Southeastern. The Detroiters leaped on the fallen Eagles 16-9 in the first period, then widened the margin to 42-27 at intermission and, for all purposes, the game was over after the third period when Southeastern built up a 70-43 lead.

"The 90 points Southeastern scored on us constituted the most points any team has ever scored on a team of mine," Meriweather pointed out.

Romulus' scoring was spread out over five players. Michael Morrison collected 16 points while Billy Anderson added 15 and Al Lewis had 13. Also in two figures were Mel Stewart and Dwight Walker with 12 and 10 points respectively.

Southeastern guard Darryl Belouch caused most of the damage to Romulus defenses as he drilled in 11 field goals and hit on 4 of 7 at the foul line for 26 points.

Against Robichaud, Romulus watched leads of 11 points diminish twice as the Dearborn Heights cagers refused to quit. A layup with 11 seconds left in the game by Clarence Hearst iced the game for the Eagles.

Robichaud took a 14-12 first period lead but Romulus came back to outscore their visitors 31-20 in the next period to take command at halftime, 43-34.

But Robichaud rallied behind Mercer Bryson who scored 18 points, enabling the hosts to cut the Romulus lead by seven in the third period.

Though the game remained close all of the final period, Romulus never gave up the lead.

Morrison strolled off the floor with game-scoring honors. He had 19. Stewart accounted for 16 while Anderson and Lewis chipped in with 14 and 13, respectively.

Former All-Area wrestler Rudy Williams is a member of Eastern Michigan University's team this season.

Williams, a 5-11, 170-pound sophomore, was graduated from Romulus High.

Williams is considered an outstanding prospect on Dave Stewart's team. Stewart entered his first season as head coach with 11 lettermen returning from last year's 12-9-1 squad.

Power steering makes it easier to drive any car, and the option, many experts say, will repay much of its original cost by increasing the car's resale value. Power brakes are also useful on large cars. They greatly reduce the strain of constant braking in traffic. Disc brakes — whose friction comes from the contract of flat pads on metal discs rather than that of rounded linings on metal drums — are less subject to fading or losing effectiveness because of the heat that is generated by continuous braking.

Get everything you need to keep your car running smoothly and looking well at KOSIN'S AUTO PARTS, 26831 Michigan Ave., Inkster. We are called the "House of a Million Parts" because of our huge stock of parts and accessories for both foreign and domestic cars. Whatever you car needs — battery, muffler, fan belt — you'll find it at KOSIN'S! Our expert staff offers friendly service. Expert mechanics do all kinds of repair work in our complete machine shop. Visit KOSIN'S any day from 8 A.M. until 8 P.M., and on Saturdays until 5 P.M. Call us at 563-3894.

AUTO FACT:
Disc brakes are less affected by moisture than drum brakes.

Walled Lake next test for grapplers

Wayne Memorial, the defending Class A state champ, and John Glenn, the No. 4 ranked Class A team in the state this season, dominated the Class A state district wrestling tournament held at Ypsilanti on Saturday.

The two Wayne-Westland Community School District high schools split 16 regional qualifiers between them as Wayne won the district title and Glenn was runner-up.

The state champs garnered a total of 70 points to finish atop a field of 20-teams. Glenn compiled 57½ team points. Both had eight who qualified for the regional tournament. In fact, the area produced a total of 31 district survivors.

"It's gratifying to see the kids work as hard as they did," Wayne Coach Don Haney said. "One of the big factors in this was the return of Kevin Rize to our lineup."

Rize, a 158-pound senior, had been on the injured list since Jan. 17 when he suffered a knee hurt.

"Something electrifying happens when Kevin steps onto the mats," Haney added.

The next test for the local qualifiers will be the state regionals, set for Saturday at Walled Lake Western. Joining the area wrestlers will be qualifiers from the Bedford Temperance district, a district won by the host.

Bedford is presently ranked as the No. 1 team in the state.

Representing Wayne at the regional tournament will be Andy MacEachern (101), Kevin Tracy (108), Randy Pittman (115), Tim Clark (129), Corry Bachus (135), Rick Pittman (141), Doug Cunningham (148) and Rize (158).

Glenn's contingent will include: Agron Vasha (115), Nick Paciocco (122), Bill Ficyk (129), Scott Davis (135), Mark Coulston (158), Jim Meyer (170), Mark Grabowski (188) and heavyweight Chuck Squires.

Livonia Franklin got three wrestlers through the district. They are Mike Kucsera (101), Jim O'Shea (115), and Dan Ogden (129), while Churchill will be represented by Tom Taylor and Mark DeWitt at 148 and heavyweight, respectively.

Belleville had two who survived the gruelling district 'wrestle-ups' in Greg Johnson (101) and Randy Slocum (170) while Plymouth Salem made it through with Carl Schultz (122), Jeff Fidge (135) and Dave Champion (188).

Romulus, which competed in the Bedford Temperance district where it finished fifth (37 points) behind Temperance (67½), Adrian (53), Jackson (52½) and Dearborn Heights Annapolis (42) had five regional qualifiers: Dennis Bergmooser (101), Lamar Sandusky (107), Rick Morrison (132), Joe Bailey (138) and heavyweight Ed Abbott.

Belleville's Gerald Malecek was disappointed not only at the Tigers' over-all performance but at the seeding committee.

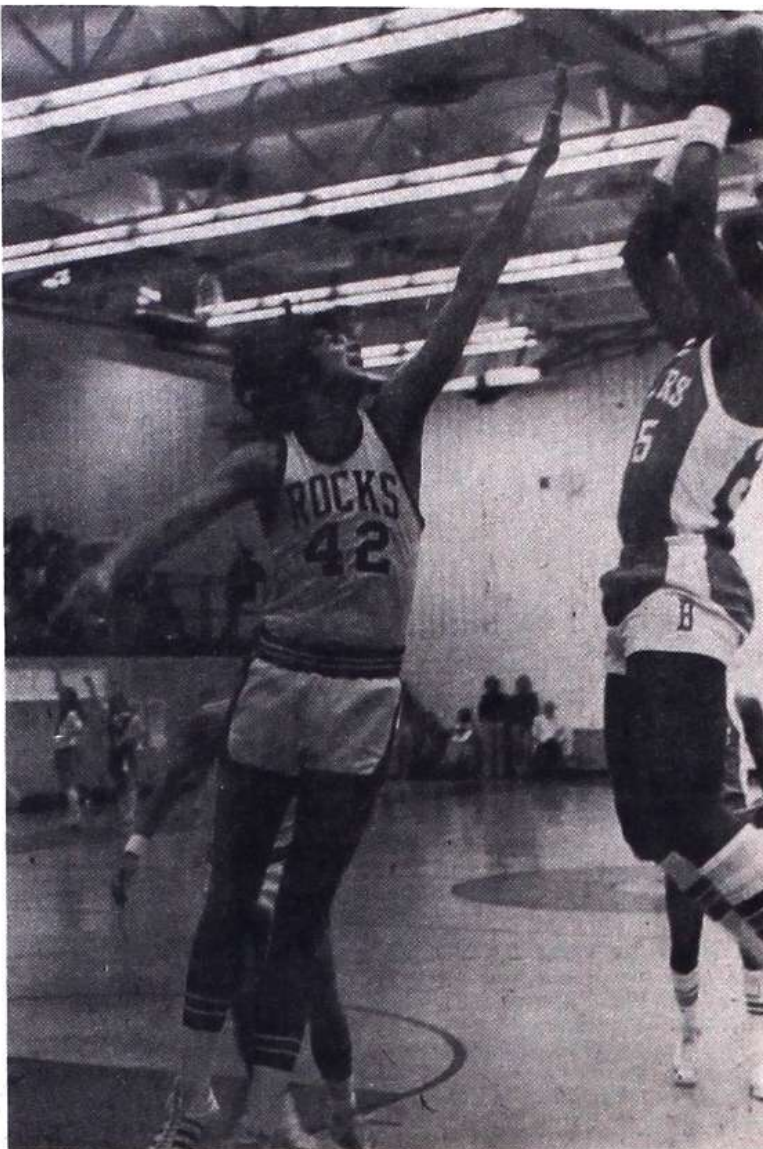

"When you only qualify two, you have to be disappointed," Malecek said. "However, the seeding committee also didn't help. They refused to seed Slocum, who had a 26-0 record as the No. 1 seed and I just couldn't see their reasoning."

Giant obstacle

Lunging in an attempt to block Belleville Narvel Turner's shot is 6-7½ Plymouth Salem center Jim Ellinghausen (42). Turner and Ellinghausen exchanged 25 points between them but the Belleville cagers managed to come up with a victory that rocked the Class A state ratings. Salem, ranked No. 1, fell to the local quintet, 63-57. The Tigers will need help in the form of another Salem upset in order to catch the Suburban 8 Conference leader.

This year's meet was dedicated to the memory of Bill Elliott, Wayne Memorial athletic director who passed away last month.

The winning team and runner-up were awarded trophies and there also was a plaque for the winning coach. Swimmers who finished in the top three places in each of the events were presented medals. The 12 finalists were also awarded ribbons.

Amway's DeVos talks about free enterprise

The advocate of free enterprise, Richard M. DeVos, recently spoke to a crowd of more than 1,200 people at the Wayne-Ford Civic League in Westland.

The event was sponsored by the Westland Chamber of Commerce and Chum Stockwell, who has been a personal friend of DeVos for more than 15 years.

DeVos, who recently turned from Russia, compared free enterprise in the United States with other economic systems around the world. Mr. DeVos invited those in attendance to look at the facts.

"We produce enough food to feed ourselves and much of the rest of the world also. Why? Do we have more natural resources than India, Russia or China? No. Do we have more human energy with which we can develop these resources? Of course not," he said. "China and Russia have more people than we have and they are begging us for food. They cannot feed their own people."

"Do we have more tools with which the people can develop our resources? No, we don't. The Russian farmer has tractors and other tools available."

"Then what is the difference between our system and their system? Free enterprise. We have a free enterprise system — we own our tools. That makes the difference. "The Russian farmer does not own the tractor or the machinery and he works only as much as he is told to work. Why should he do more? The state owns everything, and there is no free enterprise in Russia, China or India. When people own their tools they produce more, they last longer, because the people take better care of them."

Citing Argentina, DeVos said it is the land of the beef, producing an abundance of beef. It not only fed its own people, but was the largest exporter of beef in the world, he added.

When people started complaining about the high rising prices, the government started setting the prices, telling the people it would set the prices and control them.

"When the farmer noticed that he couldn't make enough money to make it worthwhile, he stopped producing," DeVos said. "The production went down and the prices now are higher than ever. Inflation is now 300 per cent, and Argentina today cannot produce enough food to feed its own people."

The Russians have plenty of arable land, tractors and farmers, according to DeVos. About 50 per cent of the Russian people live on farms, but they do not own the tractor or the farm.

It all belongs to the government, the state. If the Russian farmer works any harder or longer, he does not make any more, so with 50 per cent of their people farming, they still cannot feed themselves, DeVos said. Just recently Russia returned 5 per cent of the land back to the farmers and today that 5 per cent produces 30 per cent of the food, he added.

In America 5 per cent of the people are farmers, but, they own the farms and they own the equipment — the tools. If the farmer works harder or longer he can get ahead, he can make more money, DeVos believes.

"We in the United States feed ourselves and much of the rest of the world. This is free enterprise in action," DeVos said.

According to DeVos, the president of the Amway Corp., when a crop fails in Russia, they blame it on the weather or they say it is an act of God. But how can they say this, when there is no God in Russia, he asked. Communists do not believe in God, Lenin is their God.

When the Russians launched their Sputnik, they were years ahead of us. The Russian government gave its space program unlimited funding. Then President John Kennedy said the United States would put a man on the moon and we did it, DeVos added.

"We turned our free enterprise system loose and have far surpassed Russia, which still cannot put a man on the moon," he said. "It is not able to do it, because it does not have enough knowledge in computers and the mini-transistors needed for the automatic landing systems."

"Our choice is not free enterprise or socialism," DeVos said. "Our choice is freedom and excellence, or slavery and mediocrity."

DeVos follows a simple formula: MMW- NR + HE X T — man's material welfare equals natural resources plus human energy times tools.

Success story

A crowd of 1,200 persons took part in the salute to the American Flag at the meeting sponsored last week by the Westland Chamber of Commerce. Those present were business people, Chamber members and other interested persons on hand to hear Richard M. DeVos, president of the Amway Corp., speak on "Free Enterprise." Jazz practice

The 20-member Belleville High School Jazz Band has been practicing for the annual Jazz Band Cabaret to be held between 8 p.m. and 11 p.m. Saturday at the North Junior High School Cafetorium. Conducted in a cabaret-like atmosphere, with tables for four, the annual event will feature mostly dancing music spanning the Glenn Miller era to the hard rock era. "It'll provide something for everyone," said Dennis Miller, band director at the school. Proceeds from the $2 per person cover charge will go to the Belleville Band Boosters to help finance music scholarships for deserving band members in the school system. Tickets are available from any Band Booster, Jazz Band Member or at the door. — The Enterprise-Roman photo.
